

Neurofeedback Technician Ad

Job Summary

Georgetown Psychology Associates is looking for a BCIA certified neurofeedback technician to join our growing neurofeedback practice.

In this position, you will work individually with clients of various ages while engaging in group supervision and consultation meetings. The main responsibilities of the successful applicant include supportively engaging with clients, running neurofeedback sessions, recording patient observations, administering psychological questionnaires, and maintaining client files. Applicants must have excellent people skills.

Visit our website at: <https://www.georgetown-psychology.com>

Qualifications and Skills

Required education: Bachelor's degree in psychology or related field
BCIA Certification (or eligible for certification within 6 months)

Benefits

- Competitive pay
- Part-time work with flexible hours. Opportunities for full-time employment.
- Beautiful office space in the heart of Georgetown, Bethesda, and McLean
- Administrative and Scheduling support
- Weekly supervision meetings with our BCIA certified neurofeedback practitioner

Please send resume and cover letter to Dr. Maria Zimmitti drzimmitti@georgetown-psychology.com